

Jazz Emu - Vulnérabilité // Press Release

“Too brilliant.” The Glass Magazine

London, 21st January 2020

Today, viral electro-funk artist Jazz Emu releases his second album “Vulnérabilité”. Listen here now.

Riding high off his debut album of 2020, whose lead single topped Reddit Videos and was featured in The Awesomer as “the summer jam of 2019”, Jazz Emu is now bearing his soul in this ‘deeply personal’ second album.

About the track, Jazz Emu says:

“People assume that just because my songs are all glistening groove-driven electro-funk masterpieces that I can’t also be incredibly deep. This album is going to turn that on its head. I wanted to reveal the dark side of the Emu, with an album that picks you up and throws you around, musically and emotionally. It’s going to get gut-wrenchingly personal.”

Jazz Emu’s brand of left-field electro-pop burst onto the scene in 2019, and after the release of his debut album [sic] in January 2020 he has amassed 400k streams, had a track featured on the official Spotify ‘Fresh Finds’ playlist and been played on BBC Radio 1 Breakfast with Greg James. As he builds momentum to the release of his second album, “Allergic” sets a new course for Jazz Emu in a moodier, even more emotionally incompetent direction.

*“This really spoke to me.” Greg James, BBC Radio 1 (praise for ‘How To Socialise’)
